Join Us!

Forum on Race, Mental Health and Boys of Color

September 9, 2013
1:00-2:00pm

Who: Dr. Howard Stevenson, Professor of Education and Africana Studies, University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education

Where: The Maryland Center for Health Equity, School of Public Health Building Room 3302F

Why: Howard Stevenson is one of four distinguished guests participating in the “Pre-K to Prison Pipeline: Changing the Odds for Boys of Color” Symposium, hosted by the African American Studies Department at the University of Maryland.

This full-day event will encourage discussion on the education and incarceration trends among boys of color. Following the mini-forums, the four speakers will come together for a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Ruth Zambrana.

This program is sponsored by the African American Studies Department and co-sponsored by: Iota Upsilon Lambda and Iota Zeta Chapters of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., College of Behavioral and Social Sciences, Office of Diversity and Inclusion, Maryland Population Research Center, Department of Psychology, College of Education, Consortium on Race, Gender & Ethnicity, Department of Sociology, Gender and Ethnicity, Nyumburu Cultural Center and University of Maryland Center for Health Equity, School of Public Health

www.healthequity.umd.edu