The Art and Science of Mentoring

Dr. Joan Y. Reede is the first Dean for Diversity and Community Partnership and an Associate Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School (HMS). Dr. Reede has developed and manages a comprehensive program that provides leadership, guidance, and support to increase the recruitment, retention, and advancement of underrepresented minorities, women, LGBT, and persons with disabilities at HMS among faculty, trainees, students, and staff. She has created and developed more than 20 programs at HMS that address pipeline leadership issues for minorities and women who are interested in academic and scientific research, medicine, and the health care professions. In addition to her prime position, Dr. Reede also serves as the Director of the Minority Faculty Development Program, and Faculty Director of Community Outreach Programs at Harvard Medical School, Program Director of the Faculty Diversity Program of the Harvard Catalyst/The Harvard Clinical and Translational Science Center, and Director of the HMS Center of Excellence in Minority Health and Health Disparities. Dr. Reede also holds appointments as Associate Professor in the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the Harvard School of Public Health, and is an Assistant in Health Policy at Massachusetts General Hospital.
